

ESADE DOCTORAL SOCIETY

The ESADE Doctoral Society was founded in order to: foster links among doctoral students; provide better tools for research at ESADE; and promote Ph.D. candidates' papers and research in general.

The ESADE Doctoral Society not only includes doctoral students but also ESADE Ph.D. graduates.

The main objectives of the society are the following:

- To create and manage a fund facilitating doctoral students' attendance at international seminars and conferences.
- To establish and promote framework agreements with other Ph.D. student associations in order to share knowledge and to carry out joint research projects.
- To facilitate the publication of research papers written by doctoral students.
- To organize seminars and conferences.

Among its many services to members, the Society also provides the following:

- Assistance to foreign students to smooth the application process and facilitate validation of personal documents.
- Economic aid to attend international seminars and conferences.
- Help in contacting other students with similar research interests (intranet).
