Short Bio:

Salma Lemkhente is a Ph.D. candidate in Finance at Esade Business School. She holds a dual degree of Master's in science in Financial Management from Toulouse Business School (TBS) and the Technical School of Catalonia (UPC). Before instigating her research endeavour, she used to work as a full time finance lecturer and subject coordinator in EU Business School and La Salle Campus Barcelona.

Her research interests are intangible investments, productivity, and corporate valuation. In particular, she is interested in understanding the impact of the digitalisation of the economy on firms and on the aggregate economy as a whole. She would like to be at the forefront in trying to resolve the productivity paradox and unravel the economical tools that can capture the value of firms' intangibles. Doing so would allow her to fulfil her ultimate goal, that is, to bring industry and academia closer through insightful and practical research.
