STRATEGIC THINKING FOR GLOBAL GOVERNANCE

Faculty: Aznar Alarcon, Juan Pedro

Climate change Governance from the perspective of Game Theory. All indicators point out that the efforts done to reduce CO2 emissions are below what we need to ensure that climate change is not a threat to the World, our planet or our societies. Why individual players, some governments, do not engage in more concrete actions? Climate Change can be analyzed as a prisoner's dilemma prisoner although it may be more complex than this model. This session has two parts: the analysis of the empirical evidence about the Climate Change situation and a second part about how Game Theory can help us to explain not only what is happening, but also how it can be addressed.

SDG related: 13-Climate action.

3rd Year

ETHICS AND GLOBAL GOVERNANCE

Faculty: Delgado Mañez, Marc and Rigau Tusell, Ignacio

This course introduces the ethical debate on the role of institutions and social models. You will analyse the ethical implications of the various models of governance.

SDG related: 16-Peace, Justice, and Strong Institutions.

4th Year

INTERNATIONAL HUMAN RIGHTS PROTECTION

Faculty: Traisbach, Knut

Human rights have become a central pillar of the international order and are enshrined as fundamental rights in most constitutional states. The course serves as an introduction to international human rights protection, delving into governance approaches, public international law, and international politics. We will begin with a brief overview of the historical development and the nature of human rights. Subsequently, we will discuss relevant actors, protection mechanisms, compliance, and enforcement, along with critiquing human rights.

SDG related: 16-Peace, Justice, and Strong Institutions.
